Dear Andrew,

Thank you so much for supplying such a fantastic service of catering for the Country House Car Boot Sale last month. The public really enjoyed the delicious food and it was lovely to deal with such a helpful group of people and helping to create such a great atmosphere. And thank you very much indeed for your incredibly generous donation – you have really contributed towards the event making such a great profit of in excess of £30,000 (final figure still to be confirmed).

Your donation towards the event will help us to provide support for children and young people who have been abused and to prevent further harm. In February 2006 ChildLine formally joined the NSPCC in a move that will ensure even stronger services and a more influential voice for children and young people. The ChildLine service, now one of the NSPCC's listening services, still has the same well known telephone number and children and young people can still call 24 hours a day and receive the same crucial service.

My thanks really come from the children you are helping to protect. Because of friends like you we can continue to make the world a safer place for them to enjoy their childhoods and grow up without fear of being harmed.

Thank you so much again for taking part and helping to create a fantastic atmosphere at the event, and for your very kind donation.

Yours sincerely

Andrea Tripp
